

Debbie's Personal Profile

I love meeting people, in fact throughout my career I've had some really great jobs and I've been fortunate enough to make many friends, yes work is important, but if you can enjoy your job and you like to get on with people it's not that hard. As employers go, NEJ Stevenson is right up there with the best of them. I started here in 2002 in what was the Company's first administration role - supporting the design team, but now I assist Neil and the other Directors.

I have worked in some diverse businesses, from the automotive components industry to the charity sector and now manufacturing. In each one I've been employed for 10 years or more and being quite a gregarious person it's been easy to make some tremendous friends. Beyond work, Jeremy (my husband) and I have a daughter, Hannah who is currently studying for her 'A' levels and learning to drive.

Hannah has also followed her mum's passion for horses which have been a huge part of my life since I was a young girl. We have two now, thankfully both stabled near my home. I'm up early every day, rain or shine, summer or winter, mucking out, feeding and checking 'the boys' are all okay. I probably see as much of them as I do Jeremy! It's demanding work but is really great fun and when we're not at the stables we're usually travelling the UK competing and qualifying for events. Each August we compete with friends from all over the country at the British Show Pony Society - Summer Championships in Lincoln, and at the end of a hard day we catch up with everyone in the evening and have a large glass of wine.

Anyway that's me; perhaps I'll see you at our Rugby office soon?
